

KLINGENTHAL ONLINE 2021

LET'S TELL OUR STORIES – THE POSITIVE IMPACT OF RELIGION IN PUBLIC EDUCATION

When	21 st October 2021 2-6pm CET/1-5pm BST
Where	on zoom
Who	People involved with religion in education who want to tell, hear and develop new stories about the power of RE/religions at school
Costs	No fee

*When we can't be at Klingenthal castle,
we will invent our
own dream castle and fairytales, that go with it, online!*

PROGRAMME

2.00pm	Welcome
2.20pm	INPUT I „PUBLIC RELIGIOUS EDUCATION“ Dr Werner Haussmann, University Erlangen-Nürnberg
2.45pm	Murmur groups /Q&A 15min break
3.30pm	INPUT II „STORYTELLING – A FRAMEWORK“ Lena Ohm, coach and journalist for evangelisch.de & religionen-entdecken.de
4.05pm	Murmur groups/ Q&A 5min break
4.20pm	WORKSHOP II „TELL YOUR STORY“
5.15pm	Wrapping up
6.00pm	End

Klingenthal online 2021's goal is for you to learn how to make a more articulated, effective and powerful case for your cause in religious education: equipped with convincing arguments and creative ideas how to wrap your message in a compelling story.

WHAT IS IT ABOUT?

“Once upon a time...” This is how we might remember the beginning of traditional stories and tales. But how are modern stories told? How do they spark interest? In a time of increasing secularisation, some might say there is no place for telling the story of religion anymore. The place of religion as part of the education landscape becomes more and more contested.

Meet colleagues from all around Europe and address these challenges together that we are facing in similar ways in all European countries.

At this hands-on edition of Klingenthal, we want to identify arguments and narratives, which can demonstrate why religion in education matters. We will learn about communication strategies, the power of storytelling and about how to wrap the identified arguments in an appealing story.

OUR SPEAKERS

Dr Werner Haussmann

University Erlangen-Nürnberg

Werner is a researcher and senior lecturer in religious education at the University of Erlangen-Nürnberg. After his university studies he worked in schools for several years and at a centre for advanced training of the Lutheran Church of Bavaria.

He is Deputy Director of the Research Unit for Public Religion and Education (RUPRE) at the Friedrich-Alexander-University Erlangen-Nürnberg. His main interests lie in the field of public theology and public religious education as well as in the fields of interreligious education and European developments of the relation between religion(s) and school(s).

Lena Christin Ohm

coach and journalist for evangelisch.de & religionen-entdecken.de

© evangelisch.de/Anika Kempf

Lena works as a multimedia editor for evangelisch.de and religionen-entdecken.de at the Gemeinschaftswerk der Evangelischen Publizistik.

She also gives training on topics such as "digital storytelling", "social media and website design" or "filming and editing with the smartphone". She is a passionate tester of new storytelling tools to tell stories as compellingly as possible.