

“Let’s tell our stories – the positive impact of religion in public education”

Klingenthal Online 2021

21st october 2021
2-6pm CET

Dr Werner Haussmann
University Erlangen-Nürnberg, Germany
Lena Christin Ohm

coach and journalist for evangelisch.de & religionen-entdecken.de

A vertical row of European national flags is shown on the left side of the image, including the Italian, French, German, Portuguese, Spanish, and United Kingdom flags. The background is a soft-focus blue sky with light clouds.

“Let’s tell our stories – the positive impact of religion in public education”

"Once upon a time...." This is how we might remember the beginning of traditional tales. But how do modern stories spark interest? Nowadays, some might say there is no place for telling the story of religion anymore. At Klingenthal online, we want to identify arguments and narratives, which can demonstrate why religion in education matters. We will learn about communication strategies, the power of storytelling and about how to wrap the identified arguments in an appealing story. Meet colleagues from around Europe and learn together how to tell new stories of religion – a skill needed across borders.

“Let’s tell our stories – the positive impact of religion in public education”

Programme

2.00pm Welcome

2.20pm Input I „Public Religious Education”

Dr Werner Haussmann

2.45pm Murmur groups /Q&A

3.30pm Input II „Storytelling – a framework”

Lena Ohm

4.05pm Murmur groups/ Q&A

4.20pm Workshop II „Tell your story”

5.15pm Wrapping up

6.00pm End

ICCS

COGREE
Coordinating Group for Religion in Education in Europe